Perfect coverage

Don't we all want to cover those little imperfections on the face before we step out? Dermalogica brings you two new products to make your wish come true, informs ANUSHA VENKATRAM.

Since its inception in 1986, Dermalogica has been revolutionising the skincare industry by introducing products that suit every skin need and type, without the use of common skin irritants. Continuing this tradition, it launched the Sheer Tint SPF 20 and Cover Tint SPF 20 product system (available in three shades), which is all set to change the meaning of coverage and lay a strong foundation for healthy skin.

The Sheer Tint SPF 20 leaves your skin with an almost transparent but radiant finish. It is formulated using Dermalogica's unique cross-linked Hyaluronic acid, to provide moisture deep into the skin. The Cover Tint SPF 20 on the other hand, has a 'buildable' opacity level, which you may find in majority of liquid foundations. It contains micro-encapsulated nylon which gives you concealing coverage in a lightweight formula. Both the products use natural mineral oxides, light-diffusing hydrolysed pearl powder and broad spectrum SPF 20, giving your skin an even texture and a radiant finish, while protecting it from the sun.

Exploring the difference between the Sheer Tint SPF 20 and the Cover Tint SPF 20, Anusha Venkatarani, International Skin Expert and Consultant to Dermalogica said, "The Sheer Tint is a lightly tinted moisturiser, which makes for an all-day sheer wash of colour. Cover Tint is a rich cream foundation that gives lasting and full coverage."
